St. Regis (or Ranere) Everbearing Red Raspberry.

St. Regis Everbearing Raspberry was originated right here in Hammonton, and introduced to the trade by Mr. J. T. Lovett. It is without doubt the best Red Raspberry grown. Bears first season after planting.

This new Raspberry will give you a good crop of fine fruit until the berries freeze in the Fall or early Winter. Fruit commences to ripen with the earliest, and continuing on young canes until November. Berries bright crimson, large size, rich, sugary, with full raspberry flavor. Flesh firm and meatty, and a good shipper. Canes stocky, of strong growth, with abundance of dark green leathery foliage.

St. Regis is a heavy bearer. In addition to this, they keep ripening all Summer and Fall, producing berries for all uses. Fresh red raspberries are, of course, a novelty at that time of year, and we recommend them to you as a good thing to have in your garden. We have the genuine St. Regis plants that are so extensively advertised all over the country.

Miller. Is early, and does not winter-kill. Shipping qualities are perfect; makes a healthy growth of canes. If you want the best medium early red raspberry, set Miller. Probably the strongest point in favor of the Miller is its splendid keeping qualities. They will hang on the bushes several days without becoming soft. This quality makes it very profitable to the grower. We strongly recommend the Miller to all.

Cumberland,—the Business Black Cap. It is of wonderful productiveness, producing regularly and uniformly very large crops. In size, the fruit is simply enormous, far surpassing any other variety. The berries run seven-eighths and fifteen-sixteenths of an inch in diameter. In quantity it is similar and fully equal to the Gregg. It is unusually firm, and well adapted to long shipments. It is an unusually strong grower, throwing up stout, stocky canes, well adapted for supporting their loads of large fruit.

Superb Everbearing Strawberry.

Superb (Per). This berry will bear a big crop in the Spring, and then in about two weeks will start to bear its Fall crop, and with seasonable weather will continue to fruit up to frost. We are of the opinion that this is the very best berry of its kind out. Don't fail to plant of them.

This variety was originated by Mr. Samuel Cooper, of New York, the first one to discover the Fall or Everbearing Strawberry. The fruit is large, fine, bright red berries, of an even shape and delicious flavor. It is certainly the best and most productive of all everbearers. My plants are pure, and true to name.

Stevens' Late. This valuable variety makes strong, vigorous plants, which yield heavy crops of fruit. The fruit is large, long, a little flattened, sometimes slightly creased, but generally smooth. The color is bright red, and the flesh is also red, but lighter. It has a firm surface, protected by prominent seeds. It is one of the best to keep after being picked, and is good for canning.

Gandy (Per). The latest of all Strawberries we grow. Not only does it bring the highest prices, but yields tremendous crops of a quality that leaves nothing to be desired in flavor, texture, color, and keeping qualities. Berries are bright red, with somewhat smooth surface. Foliage broad and dark green. The berries are borne on light upright stems, well above the leaves and dirt. Will not spoil if picking is neglected for a few days after they are ripe. As a late market sort and long distance shipper, it is the best kind we have grown.

Gooseberries.

Houghton. An enormously productive and always reliable old sort; vigorous yet rather slender spreading growth; not subject to mildew. Fruit of medium size, smooth, pale red; tender and good.

Downing. A yellowish green sort, and of good size, being a strong growing bush and a very prolific bearer. This is the most popular variety of gooseberry. Downing is extra large size, and of strictly first-class quality.

Dewberries.

Atlantic, or Black Diamond. I received plants of this variety from the originator, Mr. Leipe, of this State, as a blackberry; but in reality it proves to be a Dewberry. It is evidently descended from the old Evergreen Blackberry, as it has the same peculiar cut-leaved foliage, and trails on the ground, increasing from tips the same as other dewberries. It is very productive; the berries are jet black, of good quality, very firm, and carry well to distant markets. Fruit grows in clusters, standing well above the bushes, making very easy picking. Latest of all blackberries to ripen,—fruiting season from August 1st and lasting to middle of September. Sometimes sold as “Star” or “Wonder” Blackberry.

Lucretia. The fruit is large, superb and handsome, jet black, rich and melting. The best variety of all for shipping. It is a prolific bearer, and thrives almost everywhere.

Blackberries.

The Productive Ward. Undoubtedly a seedling of the Kittatinny, which it resembles, having all of its good qualities and none of its defects. Healthy, strong grower, with sturdy canes producing fine large fruit, black throughout, without core, and of excellent quality. Has never suffered from winter injury in New Jersey. An exceedingly prolific sort, the bushes being covered with its fine fruit, producing as many bushels per acre as Wilson in its prime. I have fruited it several seasons. I find that it proves quite hardy in bud and cane, withstanding our winters without protection.

Mersereau. A good hardy variety. Mersereau is an early, mammoth, iron-clad Blackberry. It originated in northwestern New York, where the mercury falls from 15 to 55 degrees below zero, and where it has stood in open field culture for many years without the slightest protection, never being injured in the least. In quality it is exceptionally sweet, rich, melting and luscious, being without core, the seedy character of Snyder and most other sorts is noticeably absent. As a shipper and keeper it is unsurpassed, remaining firm, without “bleeding” in handling. The canes are of exceeding strong, upright habit, attaining, upon fairly good soil, a height of eight feet, if permitted to grow unchecked, and are so stout as to always remain erect; foliage large, deep green, and abundant. Mersereau yields a good crop of large, fine looking berries. Season early to midseason.

Fruit Trees.

All kinds peach, apple, pear, quince, cherry and plum—my trees are all Ozark Mountain grown—one year old, June budded, average height 2 to 4 feet high.
